

The Nightmare Mistress

A woman with beautiful, long black hair and very pale skin appeared on a tall building every night when it's full moon. She wore a gorgeous but large blood red dress that attracted many people to the top of the building, which is life-threatening because the height can increase the risk of accidents or falls which can cause serious injuries.

People say, they woke up to a lovely voice whispering a terrifying and horrifying story. Some had nightmares since then, some couldn't sleep anymore or even couldn't resist listening to her stories just because her voice was so majestic. That's how she got her name "Nightmare Mistress".

Her eyes would glow, and her skin would shimmer in the moonlight as her long hair swayed on its own. Her glowing eyes ... they pierced through the darkness, freezing the souls of anyone who looked into them.

But it was her connection to bats that truly made her special. With a wave of her hand, she would summon a swarm of these creatures, their wings fluttering in symphony.

In the next moment, she would transform herself into one of them, vanishing into the night, leaving nothing but a red rose behind. Many say the one that gets the red rose first, would become her partner and have all their dreams come true.

It may have sounded fascinating and somewhat beautiful, but trust me, she's far from it. Everything about her was beautiful, except that she secretly drained the energy of most people who looked at her beauty. In doing so, she grew more beautiful, and it became harder and harder not to look at her.

Always keep in mind that without any energy, she would be nothing but ugly like she is from the inside.

I should have been more careful...